KAAZAR CAPITAL

OUR VISION

Wealth planning and international coordination.

Kaazar Capital advises families, business owners and investors on organising their wealth, structuring their businesses and executing corporate transactions. From London, we coordinate the financial, legal and tax resources required for each engagement.

A comprehensive view of wealth

We begin by understanding what the client owns, how it is organised and the objectives it must serve. We analyse the relationship between business interests, property, financial investments, debt and liquidity requirements. This review identifies concentrations of risk, outstanding obligations and decisions requiring coordination across countries. From this assessment, we establish priorities and a work plan linking each action to a specific need.

Services tailored to each client

The service is organised around the complexity of the client's wealth and the level of support required. The Family Office is structured around a single family; the Private Office provides bespoke coordination without requiring the client to establish an office of their own. In both cases, we bring together specialist input and provide a consolidated assessment of the alternatives, their costs and their implications for the client's wealth.

Our role is to translate broad objectives into decisions that can be implemented and reviewed. We define the mandate's scope, key contacts and information requirements, coordinate implementation and provide the agreed ongoing oversight. The client therefore has a clear point of reference for understanding what is being done, why and the intended outcome.

INDEPENDENCE AND DISCRETION

Independent advice. Specialist coordination.

Kaazar Capital combines financial analysis, structuring and professional coordination to support wealth and businesses with international activities. Each relationship is governed by a mandate defining the objectives, responsibilities and scope of service.

Wealth and business analysis

We work with families, business owners, family offices and selected institutions. We review their assets, the entities holding them and the associated obligations. Where several jurisdictions are involved, we identify decisions requiring joint assessment to avoid a local solution creating difficulties elsewhere. This assessment defines the issue before we select instruments or professional advisers.

Engagement organisation and monitoring

The service may focus on a transaction or provide ongoing wealth coordination. We establish a timetable, organise documentation and assign responsibilities for each workstream. We present the alternatives and matters requiring the client's decision. Confidentiality underpins our handling of information and our relationships with advisers and counterparties.

Every recommendation must address an identified need.

THE KAAZARIAN SPIRIT

Audacity. Loyalty. Honesty.

01

AUDACITY

We explore alternatives where conventional solutions do not meet the client's needs. Audacity means assessing different capital structures, financing routes and forms of participation. Before proposing them, we examine their viability, execution requirements and associated risks. Initiative must be supported by analysis that the client can understand.

02

LOYALTY

The client's mandate determines our priorities. We take a long-term perspective, safeguard confidentiality and explain the interests of the parties involved. Loyalty requires consistency between the agreed objectives and the decisions taken throughout the engagement, particularly when transaction conditions change.

03

HONESTY

We present our conclusions clearly and distinguish verified facts from assumptions. We explain fees, costs, risks and limitations before the client decides. Where an alternative is unsuitable or information is insufficient, we identify the issue and specify what must be resolved to proceed. Transparency is integral to our technical work and professional relationships.

Values applied to specific decisions and responsibilities.

SINGLE-FAMILY OFFICE

Dedicated coordination for a single family.

Kaazar Family Office provides a dedicated service for a family with substantial wealth. Its role is to consolidate information, coordinate advisers and maintain continuity in decisions concerning investments, business interests, liquidity and succession.

Organising family affairs

We begin with an inventory of assets, entities, obligations and professional relationships. We review how decisions are made, what information the family receives and which matters lack a designated owner. We then organise engagement with banks, investment managers, lawyers, tax advisers and other specialists. Coordination enables each action to be assessed within the overall wealth position, avoiding duplication, information gaps or conflicting instructions.

A service shaped by priorities

The scope reflects the size and composition of the family’s wealth, its business activities and individual members’ needs. It may include investment monitoring, liquidity planning, entity coordination and succession preparation. We agree reporting procedures, review frequency and matters requiring approval. The aim is to keep the family in control of its decisions through an organisation that can be sustained over time.

THE OVERALL PICTURE

Consolidated information. Defined responsibilities.

The Family Office connects decisions that are often managed separately. An acquisition, dividend distribution or change of residence can simultaneously affect liquidity, taxation and wealth continuity.

Coordinating assets and advisers

We consolidate relevant information on financial assets, property, entities and investment commitments. We assess cash requirements against debt maturities, family expenditure and planned projects. Where a decision has legal or tax implications, we coordinate its review with the relevant specialists. The client receives an explanation of the dependencies between actions and the matters to be resolved before implementation.

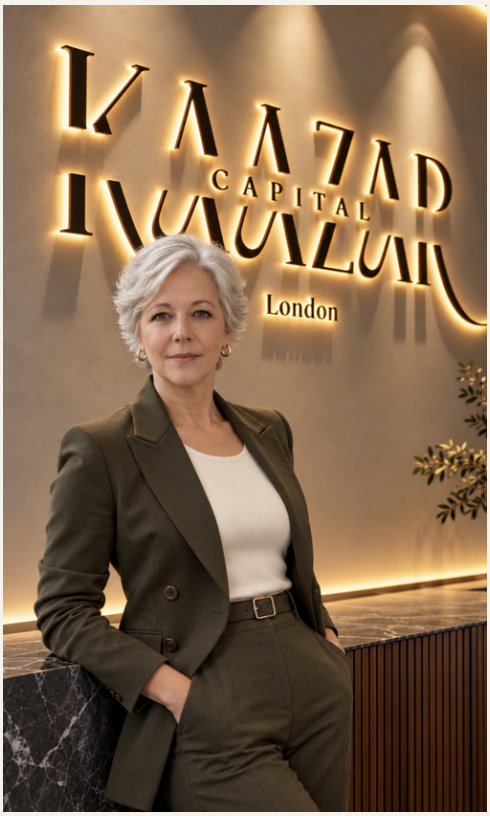

Regular review of the family plan

Planning is reviewed as circumstances change: a business sale, new family members, succession, international mobility or material changes in wealth. We maintain a record of priorities, decisions and outstanding tasks within the agreed scope. Monitoring identifies deviations, updates assumptions and brings decisions requiring attention to the family. It also supports continuity when new advisers become involved or responsibility passes to the next generation.

THE HUMAN DIMENSION OF WEALTH

Family objectives and wealth decisions.

Effective planning must consider who makes decisions, what each family member needs and their expectations for the business, wealth and future generations. These factors influence the viability of financial solutions.

Identifying priorities

We discuss income, financial independence, involvement in the business and wealth transfer with the family. We identify differences in time horizons and decisions requiring prior agreement. This information informs liquidity requirements, risk limits and continuity criteria. The process helps establish specific objectives and distinguish individual preferences from decisions affecting the family as a whole.

Supporting decisions

The Chief Emotional Officer approach brings the personal dimension into wealth coordination. We explain alternatives clearly and facilitate discussions about responsibilities, expectations and generational change. The aim is for financial decisions to reflect their impact on people and remain workable in practice. Trust is supported by ongoing dialogue and clarity on outstanding matters.

Family priorities inform planning and decision-making criteria.

PRIVATE OFFICE

Private Office for substantial wealth.

Kaazar Numbers provides financial and wealth coordination for clients who need a central point of contact without establishing their own family office. The service is tailored to their assets, entities and international activities.

Wealth assessment and planning

We organise the available information and examine the relationship between investments, income, expenditure, debt and future commitments. We identify liquidity requirements and structuring decisions needing specific analysis. We then develop an action plan and coordinate its legal and tax review. Planning enables alternatives to be compared by cost, risk and their effect on the overall wealth position.

Coordinating implementation

We support the client’s relationships with banks, advisers, investment managers and specialist providers. Where entities or assets span several countries, we organise documentation and the timetable so each professional works from consistent information. Monitoring focuses on specific tasks, obligations and decisions, with review frequency agreed according to the engagement’s complexity.

The Private Office can provide ongoing support or address a specific need, such as restructuring an arrangement, a corporate transaction or a change in family circumstances. We define the services included, who delivers them and how the client is informed. This clarity maintains effective coordination without introducing unnecessary administration.

SUPPORT FOR SUBSTANTIAL WEALTH

Wealth coordination without an office of your own.

The Private Office brings organisation, analysis and monitoring together in an outsourced service. Clients retain their professional relationships while benefiting from coordination across the different workstreams.

International organisation

We review entities, asset ownership and obligations in the countries concerned. We coordinate local advisers and organise the documentation needed to implement changes, maintain structures and meet recurring requirements.

Investment analysis

We examine each investment's role within the client's wealth: liquidity, time horizon, concentration and risk exposure. We analyse private investment opportunities and their documentation, considering the client's investment capacity and participation terms.

Family continuity

We organise succession reviews and family governance arrangements with the relevant specialists. We identify rights, responsibilities and liquidity requirements so wealth transfer can be prepared in advance.

Personal requirements

International mobility and personal projects may require banking, corporate or documentary arrangements. We coordinate these matters where they form part of the mandate, considering their implications for wealth organisation.

Scope and oversight tailored to the client's wealth.

We agree the matters covered, those responsible and the information the client will receive. The service can expand or adapt as the complexity of the client's wealth changes or a specific requirement arises.

KAAZAR NUMBERS

International corporate and wealth structuring.

We design and coordinate structures serving a defined economic purpose: holding assets, organising equity interests, channelling investments or preparing business continuity. Our analysis covers operation, costs and obligations.

Selecting the vehicle and jurisdiction

We assess the suitability of holding companies, investment vehicles and trust structures for the project. We review ownership, decision-making rights, financing and distributions. Jurisdiction selection is coordinated with specialists to assess taxation, economic substance, residence, reporting and ongoing administration. A structure must be operational and understandable, as well as meeting the client’s wealth objectives.

Formation, reorganisation and administration

Our work includes coordinating UK vehicles and their relationships with entities or assets in other countries. We organise formation or reorganisation steps, corporate documentation and intercompany relationships. We also identify recurring obligations and the professionals responsible for them. Implementation must remain consistent with actual activities and the investment or expansion decisions underpinning the structure.

Before implementing a reorganisation, we assess its impact on contracts, financing, security and asset ownership. We coordinate legal and tax reviews and document the decision-making process. We then provide the oversight set out in the mandate so the structure operates as designed and is reviewed when the client’s circumstances change.

INTERNATIONAL LEGAL COORDINATION

Legal coordination across jurisdictions.

Kaazar Law Partners coordinates lawyers and specialist advisers across jurisdictions. We organise their engagement and connect legal analysis with the client's financial and business objectives.

Specialists by discipline and country

We define the matter and determine the expertise required: corporate law, contracts, taxation, wealth or dispute resolution. We coordinate professionals in the relevant jurisdictions, provide consistent background information and organise the questions they must address. The client can then understand how local advice interrelates and which decisions require joint review before implementation.

Supporting businesses, families and transactions

In a corporate transaction, legal coordination covers the structure, shareholder rights and contractual documentation. In wealth matters, it connects ownership, succession and vehicle operation. In disputes, it links litigation strategy with costs, funding and recovery prospects. Each professional acts within their expertise and the responsibilities agreed for the matter.

Coordination establishes a timetable for deliverables, identifies dependencies and channels enquiries between client and advisers. We pay particular attention to the financial provisions of documentation: payment commitments, security, limitations and execution conditions. Legal conclusions are provided by appropriately qualified professionals in each jurisdiction; Kaazar supports their integration into business or wealth decisions.

KAAZAR LAW PARTNERS

Litigation funding and claims rights.

We assess ways to fund proceedings or release liquidity against certain claims rights. Viability depends on the legal merits, recoverable amount, time horizon and the ability to enforce recovery against the counterparty.

Third-party funding

We structure the assessment of funding for legal fees, experts and procedural costs. We review budgets, recovery scenarios and funder returns. The agreement determines the risk assumed, the allocation of recoveries and any agreed non-recourse funding terms.

Acquisition of claims

We assess transfers of claims where the holder seeks liquidity or reduced exposure. We review assignability, price, documentation and expected recovery. We coordinate legal and financial analysis to compare a sale of the claim with other funding alternatives.

Claims against public bodies

We assess claims against public authorities and bodies, considering recognition of the entitlement and enforcement. We review payment procedures, expected timelines and risks that may affect recovery.

Portfolios and law firms

Funding may be assessed across several proceedings or in collaboration with law firms. We examine portfolio composition, the aggregate budget and risk correlation. Payment structures and monitoring are defined for the funded portfolio.

Assessment combines legal merits, procedural costs and expected recovery.

WEALTH AND BUSINESS PROTECTION

Assessment and coordination of insurance coverage.

Kaazar Coverage Partners coordinates reviews of wealth and business risks with specialist brokers. Our work connects the client's assets and exposures with available coverage and its terms.

Wealth and assets

We organise information on assets, location, use and value. We coordinate reviews of sums insured, limits, excesses and exclusions to identify gaps or duplication. Coverage should reflect actual risk and each asset's circumstances.

Business risks

We analyse requirements arising from activities, contracts and third-party exposure with specialists. Reviews may cover property damage, liability and business continuity. We examine how policies interact and where protection is limited.

Art, jewellery and valuables

Art, jewellery and other distinctive assets require valuation and specific custody and transport terms. We coordinate coverage and underwriting requirements with specialists.

Coverage reviews

We update coverage requirements as wealth or business circumstances change. Insurance placement is undertaken by authorised professionals.

EQUITY PARTICIPATION

Investing in business projects.

Kaazar assesses investments in companies with development potential, using its own capital and co-investment structures. Decisions are based on business quality, capital requirements and the role we can play as shareholders.

Investment analysis and structuring

We study the business model, financial performance, cash generation and resources required to deliver the plan. We assess management and factors that may influence growth. Where appropriate, investments are made through Kaazar Strategic Investments and transaction vehicles. We define the investment amount, valuation, information rights and governance terms according to the risk assumed and the agreed position.

Investment monitoring

Our support focuses on the business plan and responsibilities agreed with shareholders and management. We review performance, liquidity, financing commitments and investment milestones. Where a project requires further capital decisions or a corporate transaction, we assess the implications for our holding. Monitoring allows us to compare business performance with the original investment assumptions and, where appropriate, prepare exit alternatives.

CO-INVESTMENT AND VALUE REALISATION

Co-investment in specific transactions.

Co-investment structures enable several participants to contribute capital to a defined transaction. Each investor must understand what they are acquiring, how their contribution is used and the rights and risks they assume throughout the investment.

Entry terms and governance

We organise the project's financial information and coordinate the investment structure. Documentation must establish contributions, rights, costs, decision-making mechanisms and distributions. Potential conflicts of interest and future capital requirements are also reviewed. Investor participation is assessed against transaction terms and applicable eligibility requirements; each project has its own scope and documentation.

Monitoring and realising the investment

Monitoring draws on financial information and business plan milestones. We examine deviations, additional funding requirements and decisions that may alter risk or expected returns. Exit routes are considered when structuring the transaction: potential purchasers, joint sales, buybacks or other agreed arrangements. Execution depends on business performance, documented rights and prevailing market conditions.

BUSINESS OWNERS AND CORPORATE TRANSACTIONS

Advice on M&A transactions.

We support owners and management teams through disposals, acquisitions, new shareholder investment and business reorganisations. We integrate financial analysis with process preparation, negotiation and coordination of transaction advisers.

Defining objectives and transaction scope

We establish the intended outcome and what the transaction includes: equity interests, assets, entities, debt and associated commitments. We review financial and operational information to identify valuation drivers and risks that may affect the process. This preparation informs the choice between a full disposal, a partial equity investment, an acquisition or a structure shared with another partner.

Managing the process through to completion

We organise documentation, identify counterparties and coordinate confidential information exchange. We assess offers, financing structures and financial terms, supporting negotiation and due diligence. With legal and tax advisers, we review the relationship between price, warranties, obligations and completion conditions. The mandate defines Kaazar’s tasks and each specialist’s involvement, with a timetable for decisions and deliverables.

SELL-SIDE ADVISORY

Advice on business disposals.

Preparing a disposal enables the business to be presented with consistent information and its financial terms to be negotiated. Our work covers process design, buyer identification and coordination through to completion.

01

Preparing the disposal

We review earnings, debt, working capital, assets and business dependencies. We define transaction scope and valuation drivers. We organise documentation and presentation materials so figures and assumptions withstand buyer scrutiny. We identify issues to resolve before approaching potential buyers.

02

Selecting buyers

We identify trade buyers, funds and other investors according to their fit with the business. We assess financial capacity and strategic interest. We organise approaches, confidentiality agreements and phased information access, adapting the process to the sensitivity of the sale.

03

Assessing offers

We compare the value and terms of each proposal: debt, cash, working capital, deferred consideration and earn-outs. We also review management retention, warranties and seller exposure. Assessment distinguishes headline price from the proceeds and risk ultimately borne by the owners.

04

Negotiation and completion

We coordinate information requests, due diligence and offer reviews. With legal and tax advisers, we align contractual terms with the commercial agreement. We monitor approvals, financing and conditions precedent to completion, identifying obstacles and keeping the parties informed.

Price, payment terms and responsibilities determine the financial outcome of the disposal.

BUY-SIDE AND CORPORATE STRUCTURES

Advice on business acquisitions.

An acquisition must serve a defined strategy and be supported by verified financial capacity. We analyse the target business, acquisition structure and resources required to complete the transaction and develop the business thereafter.

01 Defining criteria and selecting targets

We define sectors, size, geography and acquisition objectives. We assess expected synergies and the resources needed to achieve them. Selection considers earnings quality, cash generation and business dependency risks, distinguishing current performance from future improvements.

02 Valuation and financing

We model purchase price, subsequent investment and debt-servicing capacity. We test growth assumptions and working capital requirements. We coordinate discussions with funders to assess equity contributions, security, maturities and conditions that may constrain the transaction.

03 Negotiation and structuring

We assess share or asset purchases, minority or controlling interests, management-led transactions and joint ventures. With advisers, we review their effects on debt, obligations and shareholder rights. The structure must reflect the allocation of risk and the commercial agreement reached.

04 Governance and integration

We establish information rights, reserved matters and decision-making mechanisms. With the client, we define integration priorities and plan monitoring. Management continuity, initial liquidity and post-completion responsibilities are assessed before committing to the acquisition.

FROM INITIAL DISCUSSION TO ONGOING OVERSIGHT

Organising the work and delivering the mandate.

Each engagement has defined objectives, responsibilities and deliverables. The depth of analysis and timetable reflect the complexity of the wealth or transaction, with monitoring of matters requiring decisions.

LISTEN

We define the need, intended outcome, timing and constraints. We agree the mandate's scope and key contacts. This stage identifies decisions reserved to the client and the information required to begin work.

ANALYSE

We review financial, operational and corporate documentation. We test assumptions and identify risks and information gaps. Analysis focuses on factors that may change valuation, structure or the viability of the proposed action.

STRUCTURE

We compare alternatives and define the financial model, instruments, financing and governance. We coordinate legal and tax review and sequence implementation, including security and funds flows where these form part of the engagement.

CONNECT

We identify suitable buyers, investors, funders or specialists. We prepare information for each party and organise contacts and responses, maintaining confidentiality and control of the process.

EXECUTE

We support negotiation, due diligence and transaction documentation. We monitor tasks, dependencies and conditions precedent to completion. Issues are reported to the client with their effects on price, timing and responsibilities.

SUPPORT

Where the mandate includes a subsequent phase, we review results, commitments and agreed milestones. We compare progress with the plan and identify deviations requiring action or new decisions. Monitoring maintains continuity between design and execution.

FINANCING TAILORED TO THE PROJECT

Business financing and capital alternatives.

We analyse liquidity, growth and transformation requirements and match them to available funding sources. Selection depends on the use of proceeds, repayment capacity and the security the project can provide.

Assessing financing requirements

We determine the amount, tenor and use of funds: working capital, acquisitions, asset development, refinancing or expansion. We review cash flows, leverage and existing obligations to assess the capital the business can support and on what terms. This assessment distinguishes a temporary requirement from a structural shortfall and supports a proposal that funders can evaluate on a consistent basis.

Selecting and comparing alternatives

We consider banks, debt funds, specialist lenders and private capital according to the transaction’s characteristics. We compare all-in cost, maturity, security, financial covenants and reporting requirements. Where proprietary capital or co-investment is appropriate, it is assessed separately. The objective is to ensure the selected financing is compatible with business cash flows and the company’s intended decisions.

We coordinate transaction presentation, document exchange and negotiation of terms. Alongside interest rates, we consider fees, early repayment costs and contractual restrictions. Process monitoring identifies outstanding requirements and anticipates the conditions to be satisfied before funds can be drawn.

CAPITAL, STRUCTURE AND EXECUTION

Debt structuring and capital requirements.

Structured debt, bridging finance, hybrid instruments and equity serve different needs. We assess their combination according to the company's stage of development, project risk and the intended repayment or exit source.

Financing across the business lifecycle

An acquisition may require term debt; an interim transaction, bridging finance; and a growth plan, equity capable of absorbing risk during delivery. We review cash-generating capacity, investment timing and existing debt. We model the structure under different scenarios to assess financing costs and liquidity headroom. Amounts and maturities must align with the business's actual operations.

Private capital and participation structures

Where appropriate, we connect private investors with debt or equity transactions through Kaazar Numbers and the relevant vehicles. We define financial terms, participant rights and reporting and monitoring arrangements. Funding availability, eligibility and investment suitability are assessed for each project; the proposal is documented with a defined scope and specific responsibilities.

In refinancings and business transformation, we analyse maturities, security and restrictions affecting the company. We coordinate discussions with financing parties to assess alternatives and execution requirements. The work seeks a structure consistent with business capacity and the plan to be funde

ALTERNATIVE FINANCING

Alternative financing for businesses and projects.

Eurinvest Advisory & Funding provides expertise in analysing and structuring alternative financing. Its international approach supports the assessment of business and project requirements across Europe and Latin America.

Financial preparation and structuring

Preparing a transaction requires a clear explanation of the use of capital, supporting assets and repayment source. We coordinate analysis of financial information, project timing and liquidity requirements to define a structure potential funders can assess. Terms are tested against risk, available security and the parties' capacity to execute.

Bridging finance, debt and equity

Bridging finance covers a limited period and requires a precisely identified exit event: sale, collection, refinancing or another funding source. Term debt and equity combinations are assessed against project duration and cash generation. We review all-in cost, maturities, drawdown conditions and monitoring obligations so the client can compare alternatives on a consistent financial basis.

CONNECTING WITH THE UK MARKET

Access to funders in the UK market.

The UK market brings together banks, debt funds and specialist institutions with different lending criteria. From London, Kaazar organises transaction preparation and engagement with providers whose profiles match the client's requirements.

Selecting funding sources

We identify suitable providers by amount, tenor, jurisdiction, security and use of proceeds. Bridging finance, acquisitions and refinancings require different analysis and documentation. We prepare the funding proposal to explain the business, transaction structure and repayment capacity. Our approach targets providers with criteria compatible with these characteristics.

Proposal preparation and negotiation

We organise financial information, corporate structures and project documentation. We coordinate enquiries and additional requests to support funder assessment. When comparing proposals, we examine effective cost and terms affecting availability, flexibility and early repayment. Our London base facilitates engagement, while advisers in each jurisdiction review the financing's local implications.

We assess combinations of bank lending, specialist debt and private capital where a single source cannot meet the requirement. In such cases, we review payment priorities, security and compatibility between instruments. Coordination identifies dependencies before terms are accepted that could constrain another part of the structure.

CAPITAL ARCHITECTURE

Project financing in the European market.

We assess solutions for businesses, property assets and hospitality projects in Europe. Preparation considers each country’s framework, the quality of security and the transaction’s cash generation timetable.

Corporate financing

We analyse financing for acquisitions, reorganisations and management-led transactions. We review equity, debt and repayment capacity. The structure is aligned with the purchase agreement and the business’s subsequent requirements.

Property financing

We assess acquisitions and developments by asset value, remaining investment and intended exit. We review construction timing, sales or rents and security to define financing for each phase.

Hospitality financing

We analyse hotel acquisitions, expansion and repositioning. We review performance, investment and operating structures. Financing considers seasonality and the time required to achieve expected performance.

International coordination

We coordinate institutions, funds and local advisers. Where co-investment is envisaged, we assess its role and each participant’s rights. We review the terms and execution requirements of the transaction.

GLOBAL WEALTH

Global wealth planning.

Wealth organisation integrates assets, income, liquidity, risks and family objectives. Kaazar coordinates this overall perspective so investment and structuring decisions address identified needs.

Analysis, priorities and monitoring

We build a view of wealth encompassing financial investments, property, business interests and obligations. We assess concentration, access to funds and exposure to different risks. Analysis connects the client's financial capacity with expenditure requirements, projects and each investment's time horizon.

Using this information, we establish organisational priorities and coordinate actions with investment managers, financial institutions and legal and tax specialists. We review how assets are held, what information the client receives and which decisions depend on other actions. Planning also considers the effects of corporate transactions, changes of residence and family events.

Monitoring is organised according to the mandate: periodic reporting, objective reviews and updated requirements. Its purpose is to help the client understand changes in their wealth and assess adjustments with sufficient information. Investment decisions and regulated services are delivered through the appropriately authorised professionals and institutions.

AN INTERNATIONAL PERSPECTIVE

Asset structuring across jurisdictions.

Where wealth spans several countries, planning must connect ownership, taxation, governance and vehicle operation. A decision is assessed both in its originating jurisdiction and in the countries where it has consequences.

Coordination from London

London provides the base for coordinating work with professionals across Europe and Asia. We analyse relationships between assets, entities and investors and coordinate reviews of potentially suitable vehicles. European alternatives, including projects in Luxembourg, are assessed by purpose, operation and implementation requirements. Links with Asia are incorporated where they address a specific client opportunity or need.

Economic purpose and ongoing administration

Vehicle selection considers the assets it will hold, how it will be financed and who will make decisions. We review costs, reporting obligations, substance requirements and administration arrangements with the relevant specialists. We also assess the effects on distributions, transfers and wealth continuity. Coordination extends to implementation and agreed ongoing administration so the structure remains consistent with activities and the client’s circumstances.

GENERATIONS AND PURPOSE

Family governance and wealth continuity.

Continuity requires preparation for both asset transfer and decision-making arrangements. We coordinate analysis of succession, family governance and legacy projects to connect legal instruments with the family's needs.

Succession, responsibilities and legacy

We identify asset ownership, each member's rights and decision-making mechanisms. We coordinate reviews of succession instruments, family agreements and trust structures. Analysis considers liquidity, business continuity and the needs of those who will inherit the wealth.

Philanthropic projects require a defined purpose, endowment and organisation. With specialists, we prepare the responsibilities of future generations and document agreements. Reviews enable planning to adapt to changes in family circumstances, wealth or residence.

Continuity requires clear agreements on rights and responsibilities.

TEAM AND SPECIALISMS

Our team and specialist coordination.

The team manages client relationships and collaboration across workstreams. Each mandate establishes key contacts, responsibilities and the specialists required for the relevant discipline and jurisdiction.
